

also that there will be an equal responsibility between the agencies and also the 309 monies to meet that need. For example, using round numbers, if it didn't come to $30 million, it only came to $20 million, and there's a lot of people that think given this kind of a problem as it applies to all agencies of government, to private industry, and to all the rest to get into the year 2000 that somebody is going to come up with some kind of magic that's going to make it possible to do this cheaper. What we would like to assume is that should it come to $20 million rather than closer to $30 million that that responsibility would be divided evenly. There would be $10 million from the agency budgets as it should be because these are agency problems and $10 million from the 309 process. I think this will work. I know it will, in fact, and I appreciate the chance to revisit the amendment and ask for your support, try to answer any questions you might have.
